The public library in Limhamn, Malmö, needs new premises. The popular library is getting too small since the municipality is growing and the property owner believe that the library is occupying good commercial space on the main street of Limhamn. Plans have been conducted to construct a new library on a street nearby, on a plot belonging to the same property owner. Focus has been on finding a design that could be integrated in the diverse centre of Limhamn and creating a truly important meeting point; a second home; a new Living Room for the residents."
