

Lose yourself in the landscape

This project is about developing a new neighbourhood in Häljarp with a floodable wet land park as the core. After analysing the site and its surroundings, a number of strategies has been created to guide the design process. The strategies are divided into three categories; adapt to the site, liven up the community and complementing the area. This landed in a carefully considered proposal. The design proposal is strongly connected to the existing landscape and aims to strengthen its important values at the same time as adding new ones.

The proposal respects the surrounding built structure, the surrounding landscape and handles the future sea level rise. By activating the area around the train station, developing new buildings with varied functions and updated recreational areas, the connection to the train station also gets strengthened.
