

RE:thinking the LTH Campus

15 Dec.2014 -15 Jan. 2015

Kristallen, Lund

Vernissage 15 December at 16:00

During the autumn term of 2014, an international group of students at Lund University participated in the advanced course "Sustainable Urban Recycling" in the masters programme in Sustainable Urban Design at the School of Architecture.

Throughout the studio-based course the students engaged in an exploration of various aspects of the existing urban structure around the LTH area identifying problems and potentials and finally suggesting opportunities for a sustainable transformation.

The design studio resulted in 37 unique projects in which the students have challenged conventional notions of sustainability and proposed new designs preparing and supporting the integration of the LTH area into the existing and proposed urban network of Lund. Joining the districts of Lund and bringing recycling programs into the everyday environments of Lund. This exhibition provides you with insight into each of the students proposals.
